England and Russin:

Back of the question of immediate success in the campaigh between France and Austrie les one mich graver though not so immediately exciting a till that is the ultimate purpose and position of the two great powers which for the present seem to sit above the combutants like the gods on Olympus, watching the siege of Troy. United they would be oranipotent; and although that cannot be expected, yet the entrance of one upon the field; unbalanced by the other would of itself turn the scale. Russia is so situated (geographically,) and contains within berself such vast elements of power, that she is independent of everything and everybody. No European Power can inflict on her any very serious or lasting damage. Her navy in 19 be destroyed, but she can do without a navy. Her forts may be battered down: she will rebuild them at her leisure. Her armes may be benten and routed : slie will draw upon her willing and submissive population to the last man, before she will yield, when her existence is endangered. Witness the heroid struggle of 1812.

The great strides she has recently made in her internal organization and improvement are tending fast to supply her with money, the sinew of war, the want of which has hitherto prevented her from becoming really formidable as an attacking Power: when she shall become rich as well as strong, the balance of nower will be at the mercy of the Czar. Not all the fleets and armies of England and France would then prevent his helping himself to as much of Turkey as he felt inclined to as much of Asia also. But if at the present moment he feels so anxious to maintain the envilibrium of the forces of Europe for the sake of France, how is it he is not equally anxious to do so on behalf of Austria? Austria is as necessary to the balance of power as France is, Destroy her, and what is to take her place? United Germany? That is the last thing that would suit either Russia or France. An independent Hungarian and Slavonian kingdom, and United Italy, would not preserve the counterpoise, but merely add two more leading Powers to the European family. It is impossible to foresee, with anything like distinctness, what would be the result of the destruction of Austria-

Europe is made up of so many discordant nationalities that their fusion seems houcless. Austria has kept together those who are under her sway by the employment of force and cunning in playing off one against another, but not the slightest advance has been made towards amalgamating them. Germany has never been united. Italy has never been united .-Nay, it is not so very long since what is France was occupied by different nationalities-Breton, Norman, Gascon, Alsatian, Proveneal, and Frank-but the latter seems to have possessed an absorbing power and to have permanently infused its spirit into the others, so that a dismemberment of France could now only be effected by force; the dismemberment of Austria would be effected almost instantly by by the withdrawal of it. Russia itself is another instance of the permanent amalgamation of discordant elements, and the Russ is therefore like the Frank, born to dominate. These two will uphold the balance of power just so long as' it mutually suits them to do so. Nothing would give them a fairer pretext for breaking it up than the uncalled for interference of the German States in the Italian contest. Why should they interfere? Their liberties are not threatened or even endangered. On the contrary, the humbling of the power of Austria would give them a chance of throwing aff the incubu of her presidency over her councils, and of re-distributing in a fair manner the voting of the Federal Diet. Prussia would assume the lead, but Prussia is a progressive power, and constitutional government, with religious toleration, would follow in her wake. This cannot be the case with Austria, unless she changes her nature entirely,

Some of our contemporaries foresee in the result of the great contest the destruction of England, the wish, of course, being father to the thought. If we may reason from past experience, England will come now as successfully out of a contest with France as she has done in former times. If France has progressed in military and naval power, so has England, while the resources of the latter are infinitely greater than those of her antagonist. England has successfully resisted a European conlition against her, and why should she not do it again? France could not now control Germany as she did when the Berlin decrees were issued. On the contrary, Germany, which is at present excited against France to an extraordinary degree, would certainly side with England. We will not comment upon these unworthy denunciations of a great nation, which, with all its faults, has given to the world what liberty there is now in it.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Bring out the howgag! sound the gong! The great whengdoodle's sounds prolong! The sun is out; his face we see-Prom rains and fogs onto more word free!

Thus sing the " Local," as the sun came peop g through the clouds. Inturday idorating, dis illing the fog and drying up the superabun int mulstire from the carth. There was no sputing it—there was boolgnant Sol, riding grough the heavens in his charlot of fire, lookig just as he used to mouths and rionths ago; ofore the floods set in: Men would hardly beeve their eyes; some shook their heads and niled incredutously, while others were confient it would rain again before night. It did not min though, and to its credit be it spokes, aturday, June 25th, may be set down in the colondar of pleasant days; as the day when the sun gained a victory over the clouds; and asserted his right to chine: There are those; claiming to be weatherwise, who assert that the other extreme will soon be upon us, when then will pray as earnestly for rain as they did last week for its desiration. Judging from the thorough soaking which the ground has just received, such an event will not be likely to occur very soon.

The coming Fourth of July, by the recen action of the City Authorities, is not to be surfored to pass entirely unnoticed in Newport; the bells will be rung and a national salute fired. So far, so good. A friend at our elboy suggests that as it is possible to get too much even of a good thing, the bell-ringers on that occasion will gratify the public by studying moderation in the performance of their duty. On one occasion, two or three years ago, half the people in town were crazed by the pertinacity of these same bell-ringers, who scemed imbued with a spirit of patriotism exceeding even that of the old man who rong the peal of the original Declaration of Independence. We trust that this year the time of ringing will not exceed three hours, morning, noon and night

A meeting of the Corporation of the Codington Five Cents Savings Bank will be held at their Banking room this afternoon at 3 c'clock, for the aboice of officers, &c. See advertisement.

The two Methodist Episcopal Sabbath Schools of this city assembled in Convention yesterday Church, where interesting exercises, appropriate to the occasion, were held. The singing was by a choir of children under the direction of Mr. Ebon Teurjee, and was highly creditablo. A subscription was taken for the very worthy object of clothing poor children to enable them to attend Subbath School, by which, as the "bids" for the "stock" were quite libcral, we should judge a handsome sum was realized. At the close of the exersises, the ordinance of sprinkling was administered to an infant daughter of the paster of the church, a visiting energyman officiating.

The steamer Island Belle arrived here about 1 colook yesterday, from New London, bring-ing about one thousand some and daughters of the case in Cecil county, Maryland, par-Erin, among them about two hundred subbath School children. The estensible object of their visit, was to view the new Catholic church edifice here. The children, being all dressed in white, with uncovered heads, presented a quite pretty appearance. The excursionists behaved themselves with tolerable propriety on shore; but they seemed to have forgotton that it was a New England Subbath, and that they were a professedly Christian people, when they made the welkin ring with their cheers before leaving the wharf; nor was the unnecessary screeching of the beat's steam whistle and the rining of her bell in leaving the harbor, any more in beeping with the day and the occasion.

A TALE OF CRUME AND HORROR. A TABLE OF CHIME AND HORROR.—We are informed by a gentleman from Headerson of one most deeply tragical events that has ever occured in oir State.

Some time ago, Dr. A. J. Morrison; of that place, was prosecuted for lorgery, and desirous of revenging himself on the prosdesirous of revenging himself on the ecuting attorney, who was active in all the measures against him, lie attempted to procure his death by poison. For this purpose he employed Harrison, a negro watter at the Hancock House, and engaged his services to consumate his devilish intentions. The servant was to place the prussic acid in the coffee of Mr. John E. Arnold, but instead of fulfilling the arrangement, he informed Mr. A. of the consumary against his life.

Not discouraged by his first failure, Mr. Morrison gave the negro another dose of deadly poison to place in a plate of raspberries, which he was to hand Mr. Arnold: But the honest servant boy again informed, and then arrangements again informed, and then arrangements were made for the detection of this worse than Borgian conspiracy.

At a certain time he was to give Harri-

The parade of the Antiques and Horribles on the Fourth, promises to yield a world of amusement to our elizions; and in the absence of any general celebration, will serve to break the monotony which would otherwise pervade the city on that day. A meeting of the Company will be held to-morrow evening, in the Uid Distillery, near Long Wharf. All who wish to corol themselves us members must leave their names at S. T. Hubbard's store, by to-morrow evening. The Pasteboard Band will also meet at the same time and place.

We learn from the Taunton Republican, that the stometer "Young America" has been purched by the cell in Taunton, and will be placed on the poison, and giving instructions how to use the country of the Company will be placed on the colors.

t. The rascal was immediately seized on Thursday and confined in jail.

Thus providentially was this base attempt against the life of a valued and efficient officer of the Commonwealth foiled.

But the denoument of the tradgy remains to be unfolded. Morrison, come by the weight of testimony against him, and apprehending violence from the hands of an ourraged and excited populace, committed suicide on Sunday morning.

He procured a knife, and after cutting his throat, severed the main artery of his leg. When found, he was dead, literally weltering in his blood. The remains of Mr. Morrison were brought to Louisville Sunday evening, and thence shipped by Tauroud to Opringdon, Intimate, where he has connections.—Louisville Dem.

PEACHES.—The peach crop, everybody ware) Times, of a recent date, says —"It is now apparent, as the season advances, that the peach crop has not been injured as much as was at first anticipated. In some localities the crop has been benefitted, rather than injured, by the trost, for if all the fruit had remained on the trees and come to perfection, it must have been in-ferior, if, indeed, the trees could have susticularly, and in fact on the most or the entire of the Eastern shore. We are inclined to think that the orchards bordering on the Delaware river and bay have sus tained the greatest injuries. In this sec-tion the early varieties were severely hurt; in some orchards nearly all destroyed; but there will be a fair yield of the other varieties, which will, no doubt, handsomely remunerate the owners."

All kinds of Humors, and every disense arriving from a disadered administration of ballond. If taken in large doses, Fever and Ague may be breken up and cured at once. This has become a standard medicine, and is decidedly the best in the world.

Try it once, and you will be sure to do so again.

The price is cheap—only 25 cents for a pint; 37 1-2 cents for a large bottle.

You can't get a buttle too quick, for the time is fast approaching when you will have all sorts of bad feelings if you don't take the Roots and Herbs and drive them away.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS FROM WEAR AND MOTH:

IMPORTANT TO LADY HOUSE-KEEPERS.

Mt. J. R. HARRINGTON would respectfully inform the lady reader that he has, after long and tediuus experiments, succeeded in producing an article which has, from time immemorial, been much needed by every housekeeper in the land. It is that of a presultarly constructed

CARPET LINING.

This article is a new invention, and has been parented. It not only entirely protects been parented. It not only entirely protects carpets from moths and offer insects, but it makes the Carpet soft to the tread, acts as a mudler of sound, is a non-conductor of heat, thoroughly and effectually prevents dampness striking through, and what is of the greatest desideratum of all, it makes your Carpet last twice as long as if straw or puper were used. This lining is very law in price, and will at least save FIFTY PER CENT. on the cost of the Carpet. The
